MISCELLANEOUS UNREFEREED PUBLICATIONS

Letter to the Editor, published under the title “History of words explains spelling” in The Chronicle of Higher Education 34/18 (January 13, 1988), p. B3.

Reprinted with the title “A Spelling Lesson,” in The Classical Outlook: Journal of the American Classical League 65/4 (May-June 1988) 119.

This letter advocated increased teaching of Latin and foreign languages at college and lower levels, in disagreement with a column entitled “Is it ‘Pnemonic’ or ‘Mnemonic’? ‘Aberrant’ or ‘Aberant’? ‘Seperate’ or ‘Separate?’” published in the Chronicle 34/15 (December 9, 1987), p. B2.

A letter from another reader, disagreeing with my letter, was published with the title “Memory, not etymology, aids spelling” in the Chronicle 34/22 (February 10, 1988) p. B5.

Letter to the Editor, published with the title “How American culture limits the value of children,” in The Boston Globe 241/119 (April 28, 1992) p. 18, disagreeing with a column by Ellen Goodman, “Welfare mothers with an attitude,” in the Globe 241/107 (April 16, 1992) p. 19.

“Rethinking Musicological Careers,” American Musicological Society Newsletter 22/2 (August, 1992) 11.

Letter to the Editor on the future of Apple Computer Corp., published in MacUser 13/4 (April 1997) 13.

“Perfect Pitch,” contribution to “The Last Word” column, New Scientist vol. 155, issue 2101 (27 September 1997) p. 89.

Letter to the Editor, partially published under the headline “Legal Rights for Humans Only” in The Chronicle of Higher Education, section 2: The Chronicle Review 47/26 (March 9, 2001) pp. B16-B17, in response to the editorial by Steven M. Wise, “Why Animals Deserve Legal Rights,” Chronicle 47/21 (February 2, 2001) p. B13.

Despite the headline, my actual argument was not against animal rights as such, but against the notion that rights are granted on the basis of what an organism is capable of or “deserves.” That is a recipe for denying rights to handicapped or “undeserving” humans, when in fact human rights are inalienable for all. I notice that Wise has subsequently stopped making this argument in his ongoing campaign for animal rights.

“The Old Rite Returns” (with three other authors), Commonweal: A Review of Religion, Politics, and Culture 134/14 (August 17, 2007). My contribution, pp. 10-13, was titled “Widening Our Hearts.” On the re-authorization of the 1962 Missal (Tridentine Mass) by Pope Benedict XVI.
